Peace Corps Report 3 January 2012

Country	Project Name	ACVF Contribution	Project Description	Other	Community	Total Project
Zambia	Girls Can Code/ Technology Camp 2012	$14,000.00	The Girls Can Code - Technology Camp directly responds to the need of rural Zambia to narrow the "technology gap" through education and creative support. Community members, Zambezi Secondary School teachers, Zambezi Rotary Club Bwangelee, and Hackers' Guild and the Peace Corps Office of Innovation, and Peace Corps Volunteers will contribute to the success of the project. The Girls Can Code - Technology Camp will be held at Zambezi Secondary School in the Zambezi District of the Northwestern Province of Zambia. The Girls Can Code - Technology Camp will consist of 30 female learners, 6 mentoring female opportunists. It has been proven around the world that mentor push can benefit from hands-on computer science education and creative support. Zambezi is a remote district with limited access to technology and information. In Zambia, there is a demonstrated desire to build capacity for a replicable, sustainable computer science education. Further, there is a confirmed need to increase learning opportunities for females in Zambia owing to a an unsavoy, unbalanced gender ratio in the country. The Girls Can Code - Technology Camp will be a five day camp that will provide learners and work teams to program, build applications, and create computer games. Each community represented will receive a Raspberry Pi/keyboard/mouse/HDMI monitor and other useful accessories. In addition to the focus on coding, this camp will provide learners with the opportunity to develop confidence, leadership skills, and creative problem solving.	$614.00	$777.41	$25,000.00
Thailand	Camp Chaloemprakiat Career Fair	$5,000.00	Throughout Thailand, gender inequality contributes to the youth dropping an inaccurate sense of self-worth, capabilities, and potential. The barrier is the driving force behind GLOW/GLOWMEN camps. GLOW Girls Leading Our World) is a leadership camp for girls and GLOWMEN (Guys Leading Our Worlds Empowering Nations) is a camp for boys. The GLOW/GLOWMEN camps are designed to build capacity for confident leaders. The vision for the participants of GLOW Thailand is Camp GLOWMEN (Boys Respecting Others and Self), which includes both girls and boys, as an recognize that gender equality is a human rights issue that affects everyone in society. Camp GLOWMEN will be a three day camp that will run across the current range of GLOW camps in Thailand. Camp GLOWMEN will be organized by the PCVs as well as a host country national, such as a teacher or youth group leader. The camp aims to empower youth through activities focusing on gender equality, self-esteem, and communication skills. Participants will learn how to work in teams, how to be leaders, and how to communicate in a positive manner. Participants will also learn about the importance of making healthy decisions which will enable them to achieve their goals in life. The training that youth and staff will receive on gender equality, self-esteem, and communication skills will be invaluable to them as they work to become positive change by proliferating these ideas and practices.	$0.00	$3,070.00	$11,995.74
China	GLOWMEN Camp	$6,165.67	In its 5th year of GLOW in Gansu, PCVs are collaborating with the Ministry of Women, Community and Social Development, and the Women's Federation. The GLOW conference will bring together approximately 100 girls from 30 rural primary schools across Gansu. Guest and Mentors, SF PCVs, 30 local village counterparts, and 10-12 local women who will serve as mentors to the girls. The GLOW conference will be a three day camp that will provide girls with opportunities to develop leadership skills, build confidence, and learn about gender equality. Activities will include sports, arts and crafts, and GLOW Olympics. The GLOW conference will be followed by a two day GLOWMEN camp for 30 boys. The GLOWMEN camp will be a two day camp that will provide boys with opportunities to develop leadership skills, build confidence, and learn about gender equality. Activities will include sports, arts and crafts, and GLOWMEN Olympics. The GLOW/GLOWMEN camps are designed to build capacity for confident leaders. The vision for the participants of GLOW/GLOWMEN camps is that they will be confident leaders who will have the courage to challenge gender norms in their communities and in the future. The participants of the GLOW/GLOWMEN camps will be encouraged to develop a project that will help them to implement what they learned at the camp in their communities